One complaint

that we heard of was from a woman who said that Pearline hurt her hands! We knew that this couldn't be But we looked into the matter, and found that she was using one of the poorest and most dangerous of bar soaps with her Pearline When we induced her to use Pearline alone without this soap everything was lovely Use no soap when you do any washing or cleaning with Pearline It's needless and more expensive--and it may do harm 470

IN CONGRESS.

The House Only Was in Session on Saturday.

Discussion of the Senate Silver Substitute to Bond Bill Resumed.

A Very Small Attendance of the Members at the Sessions.

WASHINGTON, Feb 8 In the House fifteen members responded to Speaker Reed's suggestion at 10 30 this morning that the House come to order for the third session of the legislative day of Friday Mr Corliss (Rep, Mich) was the first speaker of the day on the bond silver coinage bill He favored the passage of a bill to secure bi metallism by an agreement with other nations than Great Britain, and if that could not be accomplished, then to keep out foreign bullion and coin the American product

Mr. Boatner (Dem, La) favored the coinage of just so much silver as could be maintained at a parity with gold Both gentlemen opposed the free coinage of silver

Mr Bartlett (Dem Ga) asserted that the victory of the Democratic party in 1892 was won because of the belief that Democratic success meant the remonetization of silver and the failure to vindicate the belief was responsible for the defeat in the succeeding years Mr Boatner asked if such shining lights as Bland and Hatch had been repudiated by their people because of their opinions on the subject of free silver

Mr Bartlett said those gentlemen were defeated because the people were so disgusted with the failure of the Democratic Congress and administration to redeem the promises of 1892 that 954 000 men who voted the Democratic ticket in 1892 stayed at home in 1894 or voted another ticket

Mr Mines (Rep, Mich) the successor of Senator Burrows, advocated concurrence in the free coinage substitute sent by the Senate and at the conclusion of his remarks at 12 the House adjourned It was immediately called to order for the legislative day of Saturday

Mr Grosvenor (Rep, O) made a speech, taking for his text the plea of the gentleman from California (Mr Johnson) to "do something for silver Do something continued Mr Grosvenor, for one hundred men, constituting the strongest monopoly in the country Referring to to the frequent denunciation of the "crime of 73" as a piece of secret legislation Mr Grosvenor said any man who made such a statement when the Congressional Record contained sixty columns of debate on the subject ought to go home and never come back

In conclusion, Mr Grosvenor warned the Republicans against voting for a free coinage substitute

Mr Evans (Rep, Ky) spoke against the Senate substitute and was followed by Mr McCreary (Dem Ky) who referred with pride to the large number of bidders for the new bond issue, but regretted that a nation like ours should be moved by unwise and vicious laws to offer bonds for sale when Congress is in session and ready to give relief He asserted that the Democrats are not responsible for the financial condition

Mr Hepburn (Rep, Iowa) denied Mr McCreary's assertion that the Republican party had demonetized silver

Mr Towne (Rep, Minn) said the subject raised by the consideration of the bill was the most important that had engrossed the attention of the people

Mr Hall (Dem Mo) spoke against the free coinage of silver

The House at 5 15 took a recess until 8 o'clock The Representatives who gathered in the hall of the House to hear and participate in the debate on the bond silver coinage bill could be counted on one's fingers

Messrs Phillips (Rep, Penn), Colson (Rep Ky), and Wagner (Rep, Pa) opposed free coinage and Mr Talbert (Dem, S C) advocated it At 9 25 o'clock the House took a recess until 10 30 Monday morning

The amount of the bonds aggregated $100,000,000 for which the Treasury will receive in round figures about $111,000,000 Geographically considered, the bonds were distributed in round figures as follows

THE WEEK IN CONGRESS

Senate Will Get Down to Actual Business at Last.

Mr. Quay Hopes to Have Tariff Bill Re-Committed to the Committee.

House Will Vote on Senate Silver Substitute to Bond Bill This Week.

WASHINGTON, Feb 9 Although the present Congress has been in session more than two months without the customary holiday recess the Senate will only this week get down to the actual business of the session and begin consideration of the appropriation bills Mr Hansbrough's seed resolution is unfinished business and he expects to have a vote upon it within a few days although the understanding is that it is to be laid aside temporarily whenever appropriation bills are ready to be considered Mr Quay's amended resolution to recommit the tariff bill to the Senate Committee on Finance without instructions which was laid over until tomorrow will come up early

Mr Quay says while the vote will be close he believes it has an even chance of passing

The Populists at their recent conference decided to vote against the re-commitment and if they do so together with the entire Democratic vote the resolution will not prevail

Mr Smith, of New Jersey, will address the Senate on the Monroe resolutions now pending It is believed that he will take a ground between the ultra-conservatism of his colleague Mr Sewell, and the radicalism of Mr Davis of Minneapolis The fact that Mr Smith has conferred with the President on this subject and his speech to a certain extent is believed to reflect the views of the chief executive, will give it interest

Mr Blanchard of Louisiana will speak on the same subject Tuesday

An effort to change the elective officers of the Senate may be made during the latter part of the week and there is more or less conjecture about this Meanwhile there is abundant work before the Senate in the shape of appropriation bills, those having been reported to the Senate being the urgent deficiency, military academy, pensions and consular and diplomatic bills In none of these have many additions been made save in the urgent deficiency bill in which at the request of the Treasury Department a large amount for unprovided expenses of the Department of Justice has been inserted

The House will further discuss the bond silver coinage bill until 12 Tuesday morning Notice has been given of a large number of amendments and it is not certain when a final vote on the free coinage substitute will be reached It is hoped it may be had Wednesday The silver advocates concede that the Republican vote in favor of the substitute will not be as large as was given against the passage of the bond bill last December

It is variously estimated by them at from 25 to 40 After the financial matter is disposed of, the appropriation bills will again come to the front There are two of these, the agricultural and military bills, now on the calendar and the Indian bill is ready for a report to the House The elections committee has two or three cases of contest ready which it can bring in at any time

Officers Say Fight Will Not Take Place in Texas

EL PASO, Texas, Feb 8 There was very little news in sporting circles today George Look, who has been in Chihuahua looking after the Mexico part of the arrangement, returned this morning and was closeted with Dan Stuart and one or two other interested parties Look stated that the programme would be carried out The opposition is still at work Horace Leeds and his backer, Captain Glory, arrived this morning Leeds is the last of the contestants on the ground and while he will have but a short time to train in this climate both he and his backer seem confident that he is a sure winner The reason for Fitzsimmons having trouble over training in Las Cruces is owing to his laying up his trainer, Jack Stelzner, with a broken nose. He has not moved yet and may be able to smooth the matter over with the authorities.

Capt. Hughes of the Rangers and Sheriff Simmons of this county were both seen this morning and they claim not to have received any special orders and that they know nothing of extra Rangers having been ordered here. Sheriff Simmons says that the fight will not come off in this county unless so private that he and his deputies do not learn of it in advance.

Without Question This Authority Must be Respected.

The State Chemist of Massachusetts who has examined for the State Board of Health all the chief baking powders of commerce says

"The amount of leavening gas yielded by the Royal Baking Powder was greater than that given off by any other powder The Royal was found also the purest of those examined and contained no alum or objectionable ingredient The Royal is unquestionably the best

The market is full of low grade baking powders mostly made from alum, which are urged upon consumers by parties interested in the great profits which they yield They are unwholesome in practical use, expensive, and should be avoided under all circumstances

Baking powders sold, either wholesale or retail, at a lower price than "Royal," are almost invariably made from alum, and therefore of inferior quality and dangerous to health.

A Republican State Convention

—WILL BE HELD IN—

City Hall, Portland,

THURSDAY, APRIL 16th, 1896,

At Eleven O clock A. M.

For the purpose of selecting six candidates for electors of President and Vice President of the United States and four delegates at large and four alternates to attend the National Republican Convention [illegible]

[illegible]

JOSEPH H MANLEY Chairman

[illegible] Secretary

Augusta Maine Jan [illegible]

Presidential Electors Must all be Chosen in State Convention

[illegible]

J H MANLEY Chairman

Should Be Censured

[illegible] Massachusetts [illegible] the remarks of Mr [illegible] of South Carolina in the House [illegible] The resolution advanced for this [illegible] is that such a resolution would [illegible]

[illegible]

As a matter of fact the [illegible] South Carolina member counts for nothing. He stands upon the floor of the House as much a part of that body as any other member and when he [illegible]

[illegible]

When a member of the United States Congress in the year 18[illegible] gets up on the floor of the House to proclaim his belief in the justice of secession and states that he would again join a conspiracy against the Union if occasion offered, and escapes with a vote of censure merely, he is very fortunate. As the Biddeford [illegible] says "A vote of expulsion would fit his case better." This is no exceptional case. It is a common matter to hear the lost cause glorified by men who are drawing pay from the United States Government. In a less objectionable form perhaps than the language used by the South Carolina Congressman, but calculated to show the rebel spirit just the same. About the last speech the late Justice Lamar made in the Senate was an elaborate defense of Jeff Davis who he said, could not be referred to as a traitor in his presence without a protest from him. This sort of thing is becoming a trifle monotonous and the House should take such action in this matter as is calculated to show these bourbon fire-eaters that they cannot violate their oath with impunity.

The Tariff for Deficit.

The hysterical efforts of the New York Herald to make the people believe that a tariff law now running the country into debt at the rate of four or five million dollars a year, is better for the country than a tariff law that provided adequate revenue for all expenses and left a comfortable surplus to be applied to the liquidation of the national debt, leads the Boston Advertiser to remark that a very little goes a long way to satisfy the average tariff-reformer nowadays. Thus the New York Herald, noting the fact that the customs and other receipts of the nation had reached $20,000,000, has had an attack of delirious joy and announces that "the revenue from customs is now larger than under the McKinley law," and that under the Wilson law the revenue, especially that derived from tariff duties, is all that is now needed for an economical administration." The beauty, the real inherent humor of these assertions is to be comprehended only when it is known that at the rate of deficit developed in January, the deficit for 1896 will exceed $38,000,000.

January is a month of large government receipts, and also of large government expenditures; but it is worth notice that the revenues under the Gorman bill this year show an actual decrease rather than an increase. If there were to be made in the Advertiser a statement relative to financial affairs so grotesquely incorrect as that quoted from the New York Herald, every leading tariff-reform contemporary would promptly make indignant and surprised comment, but it is rather characteristic of our contemporary (and indeed of the journals of that class) to ignore pertinent statistics entirely in an effort to prove a point.

As is admitted by tariff reform journals in connection with the woolen controversy it is useless to select 1894 as a basis for tariff comparisons, as in that year business of every kind was kept stagnant during the tariff struggle and agitation. Taking the other years of the recent past, however, the statistics show that while the customs receipts last month amounted to $16,380,796, in January, 1895, they reached $17,361,916, in January, 1893, $21,102,476, and in January, 1892, $17,459,285. In only one January in recent years (and then in a year of unusual depression, superinduced by the attempt to enact the Wilson bill) have the customs receipts ever gone so low as in January 1896.

It must be remembered that the "expense", as shown in the government statistics seem smaller than they really are. The Treasury Department is withholding the sugar bounties and alcohol rebates authorized by law. When the supreme court orders the treasury to obey the law a lump sum of $20,000,000 or of $30,000,000 may have to be paid out, so that it is very probable that the actual deficit for 1896 will be between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 unless the revenue tariff bill shall have been enacted in the meantime. Altogether, the less the defenders of the Gorman law have to say about its abilities as a revenue getter, the fewer apologies they will have to make when the real facts are made public.

The Use of Shoddy

The New York Press says it recalls distinctly that one of the many advantages that it was promised the Wilson law would give us was that wool and woolen goods would be made so cheap to the consumer that he would no longer be compelled to buy clothes into which shoddy entered largely as a material. The Evening Post was so sure of this that it repeatedly prophesied that after the passage of a free trade bill the shoddy mills in this country would shut up with much cursing of free traders.

Well, let us see about it. In 1894 there were imported free 1,025,901 pounds of rags, waste and shoddy valued at $153,407 and paying duty 142,010 pounds, valued at $44,843. In 1895 there were imported free 18,174,321 pounds valued at $1,[illegible] and paying duty [illegible] pounds valued at $[illegible]. We tabulate the comparison.

Imports of rags and shoddy

	Pounds	Value
1894
Free	[illegible]	[illegible]
Dutiable	[illegible]	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]	$[illegible]
1895
Free	[illegible]	[illegible]
Dutiable	[illegible]	[illegible]
Total	18,[illegible]	$2,[illegible]

Furthermore we have the testimony of the Manchester Guardian that English manufacturers are exporting to this country large quantities of goods which are made of shoddy and that they are showy, but half worthless. The increased imports of shoddy alone therefore do not begin to represent the increased consumption of shoddy goods in the United States since the Wilson law showered its benefits on us. But the free traders none the less cheerfully continue to assert that the Wilson monstrosity has made us the most blessed of nations.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Thomas Sexton Named as McCarthy's Successor.

Yachtsman Insists that Lord Dunraven Shall Make Honest Apology.

London, Feb 8—(Special cable letter) A report that was generally credited was current in the Conservative clubs here last night that the government would be able in the House of Commons to foil the attack of the opposition on the Venezuelan question by announcing that the negotiation for the arbitration of the Anglo-Venezuelan dispute had been opened.

Nothing can be said relative to the precise form the Liberal's criticism of the government will assume until the leaders of the opposition get time to scan the queen's speech opening the session of parliament which will be read on Tuesday next. It is understood that the speech will contain an assurance vaguely put to the effect that the government has under consideration proposals that offer a prospect of a peaceful solution of the dispute. If a more definite ministerial statement cannot be obtained then any amendment to the address in reply to the queen's speech distinctly affirming that arbitration ought to be accepted by Great Britain will be moved by Sir William Vernon Harcourt the Liberal leader in the House of Commons.

No meeting of the leaders of the Liberal party will be held till Monday but today several influential members of the party and the House of Commons will meet ex-Prime Minister Rosebery with a view to discussing the general line of action to be followed. The party is solid in its determination not to allow the difficulty with the United States anent the British Guiana boundary dispute to drift further. It will not submit to rebuffs by the ministers pretending that there is necessity for reticence nor will it accept excuses based upon the habitual dilatoriness of the foreign office.

As many of the Unionists are strongly in favor of the [illegible] being [illegible] in the arbitration of the question the Liberals will have strong ground for insisting upon an explicit and candid official explanation of the present situation and the policy of the government.

The Conservatives assert that Lord Rosebery will find himself in an awkward position in assailing Prime Minister Salisbury as documents in the foreign office prove that when Lord Rosebery held the office of secretary of state for foreign affairs from 1892 to 1894 in which latter year he succeeded Mr Gladstone as prime minister he refused to accept arbitration.

The progress of Sir Frederick Pollock, professor of jurisprudence at Oxford university, who is preparing the [illegible] of Great Britain is known to be slow. Officials of the Royal Geographical society including Mr Clements R Markham president of the society and those [illegible] busy in making researches on behalf of Sir Frederick Pollock. They [illegible] entirely reliable guides [illegible] entirely prejudiced in favor of the British [illegible]

The papers which have given prominence to the views of Mr Markham be[illegible] holding that Venezuela inhabits no claim to any part of the so-called British Guiana and the views of persons supporting the British contention have [illegible] A remarkable statement made by Sir David Chalmers who spoke before the Edinburgh Geographical society. He was chief justice of British Guiana from 1878 to 1894 and has special knowledge of the country. He deliberately affirmed that out of the 100,000 square miles supposed to form British Guiana's whole territorial claim Venezuela can claim two-thirds with absolute honesty. He would not say that these two-thirds belonged to Venezuela but would only state that the territory could be claimed by Venezuela on grounds strong enough to be submitted to arbitration justified in private or submitted [illegible]

Queen Signs Her Speech

The queen [illegible] at Osborne House her residence on the Isle of Wight today signed her speech [illegible] the session of parliament.

In the direction of fostering an entente with Russia Lord Salisbury will assent to the acquisition by Russia of a harbor in Kyan Chau bay which lies at the Yellow Sea from the east coast of the Shan Tung promontory and will guide [illegible] using the place as a naval depot from China for 20 years.

Mr Balfour the first lord of the treasury in his speech at Bristol on Monday night last surprised the country by inviting Russia to secure a port on the [illegible] The acquisition of such a port by Russia has heretofore always been strongly opposed by Great Britain on the ground that its possession by the former would be a menace to her interest in the far east. Advices from Shanghai are to the effect that several Russian warships are already wintering in Kyan Chau Bay and this is believed to partly explain Mr Balfour's invitation. It is securing another port far to the southward of Vladivostock her present port in eastern Siberia which will be free from ice and adapted to form a commercial outlet during all the year.

According to the speaker the port while strengthening the defences of the Dardanelles will purposely leave the Bosphorus open for a Russian fleet may appear off Constantinople within three weeks to protect the sultan against the rising.

Been Met with Jeers

Lord Dunraven's references in the speech delivered by him at Glasgow to the impossibility of a quarrel between two nations of the same blood the same this that and the other thing has been met with jeers by the Liberal press.

The Westminster Gazette asks why if Lord Dunraven is so anxious for international amity he does not express regret for the unfounded charges he made against the owners of the yacht Defender. The Yachtsman enlarges upon the irreproachable behavior of the committee of the New York Yacht Club and insists that Lord Dunraven shall make the amende honorable.

Maritime Conference

The proposal to reopen the Washington maritime conference to consider the question of sidelights and sound signals will not be favored in shipping circles here unless the number of delegates shall be based on a tonnage franchise. At the last conference the British delegates who represented 13,250,000 tons of shipping, had only the same voting power as the smallest maritime power. To give Great Britain, with over half the total tonnage of the world a voting power not exceeding that of Belgium for instance would make the conference a farce.

To Revise Her Will.

The death of Prince Henry of Battenberg, husband of Princess Beatrice, youngest daughter of the Queen has caused her majesty to revise her will. It is reported that she will leave Osborne House to Princess Beatrice, and will also bequeath to her the lease of Abergeldie House. The Duke of Connaught, it is said will get Balmoral, the Queen's residence in the highlands.

Ex Empress Eugenie has chartered the late Duke of Hamilton's steam yacht Thistle and placed it at the disposal of Princess Beatrice for a cruise in the Mediterranean.

MARKET IRREGULAR

During Early Hours but Shows Stronger Tone Later On.

New York, Feb. 8.—The stock market during the early session was quite irregular, some disappointment being manifested at the comparatively small amount of the new bonds allotted to the Morgan syndicate. This led to the belief that money may work tight and induced some realizations.

Railway stocks were less active and rather irregular in their course. There was also evidence of profit taking in this group. Manhattan was exceptionally firm and rose 1⅛ to 107⅞. The changes in the other leading issues were generally less than a point.

Money on call is four per cent. Prime mercantile paper 6 and 7 per cent., sterling exchange weaker with actual business in bankers' bills at 486½ and ¾ for 60 days and 487½ and ¾ for demand, posted rated 487½ and 489; commercial bills, 485½ and 486¼.

Clearing house statement: Exchanges, $101,078,282; balance, $5,287,338. Shortly after 11 o'clock the selling to realize profits abated and the market took on a decidedly stronger tone and some stocks sold at the best figures.

Condensed Despatches.

A Columbus, Ohio, despatch says: The supreme court of Ohio in the case of Bird F. Mills vs. the Board of Elections, holds that the statute giving to women the right to vote at school elections is valid and constitutional.

Judge Sutherland, of Rochester, N Y., Saturday morning sentenced Rev John M. Fitzgerald to Auburn prison for ten years.

BREWER LOCALS.

A CALL

To Organize the "Reed Club" of Brewer.

The Republicans of the City of Brewer and all others who may be interested are cordially invited to meet at City Hall in said city on Thursday evening, February 13th, at 7.30 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a campaign club to be known as "The Reed Club," looking to the political advancement of Maine's distinguished citizen and the glory of our State. All Republicans are urged to be present.

Per Order.

Brewer, February 7th, 1896.

Mrs. Austin Wilson, of Newark, N. J., is in the city making a visit with friends.

The next meeting of the Board of Trade is to be held on Wednesday evening of this week.

Capt. Charles Higgins, of South Penobscot, formerly of Brewer, has been in the city for a short time past.

St. Valentine's Day comes on Friday of this week, and the young people are anticipating their usual observance of the occasion.

Rev. J. T. Crosby occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon and delivered an able and interesting sermon.

Another party of Brewer people went to Oldtown Saturday evening to witness the production of "The Gloves", in the city hall there.

Rev. J. T. Crosby, pastor of the First M. E. church, and Rev. Mr. Kearney, of the M. E. church at Eddington Bend, exchanged pulpits yesterday morning.

Business is brisk now at the torpedo factory at North Brewer and many thousands of the noisy little explosives are being made in preparation for the coming Fourth of July demand.

The freezing of the slush and water in the sidewalks left them in a very slippery condition Saturday morning and made the use of the sand team necessary. A liberal supply of sand was sprinkled over them and the walking rendered safer thereby.

Street Commissioner Stone has had teams at work recently hauling gravel from the city's bank in Veazie to North Brewer where it will be used next season. At South Brewer Mr. Stone had quite a quantity of gravel given him for the hauling and he accepted the gift for the city.

Mr. A. A. Kenney, who has taken the contract to rebuild the Bradbury building which was burned a few weeks ago, is making good progress upon it. When completed the lower part of the building will be occupied as a grocery store by Mr. C. G. Glidden and Mr. Bradbury will have his machine shop in the second story.

The rain of Thursday night made crossing on the river at the ferry way a very wet operation, the slush and water being several inches deep on the surface of the ice, and it failed to freeze enough Friday night to allow crossing with immunity from wet feet on Saturday. Rubber boots were the only sufficient protection and many people who attempted to cross without them got their pedal extremities extremely wet before they got over.

BRIDGE DISASTER.

Several Bodies Still Missing that are Known to Have been Drowned.

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 8. Bodies of the six men known to have been drowned in the Pequabuck bridge disaster near Bristol, Thursday night, have not been recovered. They are James Mack, 32, married, of New Britain; Patrick McCarthy, 25, single, of New Britain; Charles Costello, 35, married, of this city. These are all well known, but it is reliable that there are two or three Italians unaccounted for. An Italian woman from this city was in Forestville, Friday afternoon, looking for her husband of whom she could find no trace.

The men were picked up for the wrecking train in a hurried manner, being taken from East Hartford, Hartford, New Britain and Plainville, and only their section bosses knew who they were. One boss, O'Brien, is dead, and it is probable that Martin Curry, of New Britain, is also dead. His was the only other man who knew who was in the gang from that place. The unrecovered bodies have probably floated down the stream to the Plainville pond, under the ice, where they may remain until spring.

JUMPS FROM TRAIN

And Falling Under Wheels Is Cut In Two.

GARDINER, Feb. 8. Ernest Libby, of Deering, employed in cutting ice near South Gardiner, jumped from the Pullman train last night, and falling under the wheels was cut in two. It is supposed that he had been stealing a ride on the front end of the mail car.

FIRE IN CAMDEN.

C. B. Abbott's House Burned to the Ground.

CAMDEN, Feb. 8. C. B. Abbott's house took fire at two o'clock this morning and burned to the ground. Loss, $2,000; insured. Cause, a defective chimney.

U. S. DEP. MARSHAL EMERY

Returns to Augusta with Malone Girl Arrested for Robbing Mail.

NORRIDGEWOCK, Feb 8. United States Deputy Marshal Emery arrived last night, returning to Augusta with the Malone girl arrested yesterday for stealing from a letter. Gilman and Postmaster Veazie went this morning as witnesses.

Telegraphic Notes.

The following Maine pensions were granted at Washington, Friday: Original, Wm. W. Twombly, Norway. Increase, Jas. Walton, Rockport. Reissue and increase, Geo. W. Johnson, Richmond.

Who does not know women and young girls who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? But there is a cause. It is to be found by the intelligent physician in some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs of generation. The woman who half understands herself, feels that she cannot always be complaining; she cannot always have the doctor in the house. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. The trouble usually comes so gradually it is attributed to some outside cause. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. All these symptoms are simply protests of the silent, long-suffering nerves. The trouble shows in dark circles below the eyes, a downward curve of the mouth, a sallow, brownish-yellow neck.

Unregarded, the trouble grows. A few years of tortured invalidism, probably insanity, before merciful death comes. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the fruit of years of study. It is the product of an investigating mind united with a generous nature. When an intelligent person gives years of study to a subject there must be some good result. The "Favorite Prescription" is a compound of extracts of herbs that makes a strengthening, soothing medicine. It acts directly upon the distinctly feminine organs. It stops drains from lining membranes by healing diseased parts, thereby curing also the inflammation that is always present.

"I was in a critical condition. Often I was in despair. I experienced a great improvement by taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I have taken six bottles, and I am sure that it will not only cure ulceration but all diseases of females." Yours truly,

R. T. Rudd

Neapolis, Virginia.

FATAL POISONING.

Used Arsenic instead of Baking Powder in Making Bread.

One Daughter Dead, Another Lying at Point of Death, others in Critical Condition.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 8. Meagre details of a fatal poisoning in Nicholson township have been received. The victims are the family of John Sliger. One daughter is dead, another is lying at the point of death, while the other members of the household are in a critical condition. The poisoning was the result of a mistake in using arsenic instead of baking powder in making bread. All the family ate of the poisoned food, no one was able to go for aid and the sickness remained hours without attention. A neighbor made the discovery and sent for a physician. Mr. and Mrs. Sliger will probably recover. There are grave doubts concerning the others.

FIRE RECORD.

Altmyer Theatre Block Burned—Loss $130,000.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., Feb. 8. Early this morning fire broke out in the Altmyer Theatre block in Fifth avenue, and in a short time the entire building was a mass of flames. The Herald Publishing Company occupied the top floor, and all the employes excepting George Barte, the foreman, escaped. He attempted to escape by sliding down the elevator rope from the sixth floor and has not since been heard from. The residence of Peter Strohm, the rear of Becker's Hotel and Deitlich's stables were crushed by falling walls. The theatre block cost $130,000 and was insured for $49,000.

TRANSVAAL TROUBLES.

As Told by Capt. Knight and Party Who Have Returned from Gold Fields of South Africa.

Ironwood, Mich., Feb. 8.—Captain William H. Knight and party who left this city last spring for the gold fields of South Africa have returned. They tell an interesting story of the troubles in the Transvaal.

For a couple of weeks before "Jameson's ride," the officers of the mining companies were smuggling rifles and ammunition into the country on the bottom of coke cars.

On Tuesday, Dec. 31, the mines were shut down and the men ordered to take guns and ammunition and be prepared to march to Johannesburg by four o'clock in the afternoon. The Michigan party left at once and were just over the line in the Orange free state when the battle between the Boers and Jameson occurred.

Many of the miners were forced into taking up arms by the mining officials who shut up all the boarding houses and bought all the available provisions and literally starved the men into accepting their terms.

Capt. Knight says that the miners, or the foreign population of Johannesburg have no fault to find with the Boer government and says that everything is done to better the condition of the laboring men. The members of the party say that John Hays Hammond who demands protection from the United States is not entitled to any sympathy whatever.

As the head of the so-called reform committee he was largely instrumental in causing the trouble. They say that men in a position to know claim that fifty thousand British soldiers cannot drive the Boers from the Transvaal.

THE FIGHT.

Gov. Thornton Thinks there Will be No Attempt to Have Fight in New Mexico.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 8.—Governor Thornton, of New Mexico, together with Sheriff Escarate of Las Cruces and Deputies Casey and Gonzales came here on last night's train. Gov. Thornton said: "I advised Escarate not to come to El Paso because I did not believe there would be any attempt to bring off the fight in New Mexico and because the signing of the bill would take the matter out of the hands of the New Mexican authorities entirely. I instructed him that as soon as the bill should be signed he must wash his hands of the whole business. The signing of the bill will relieve the territorial authorities of all responsibility and place it upon the federal officers.

"Escarate and his deputies will go home as soon as they know that the bill is signed. I feel much relieved by this action of Congress.

"Personally I don't care whether they have a fight or not, and there being no law in New Mexico against prize fighting I should not have felt obliged to use any extraordinary efforts to stop it. The opposition papers, by diligently circulating the false report that I had been bribed to shut my eyes, compelled me to take more notice of it than the law itself did."

It has been learned that Adjutant General Mabery of Texas is figuring on bringing his rangers to El Paso on the 14th inst. to prevent the fistic tournament here in case they try to fight on Texas soil.

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 8. An intimate personal friend of Dan Stuart says: "The Maher-Fitzsimmons fight will take place on the estate of Dr. Alexander, a retired United States Army surgeon, who has one of the finest grape vineyards in Mexico, located four miles from El Paso. This estate consists of 400 acres of land in a body. Part of it is situated on the disputed international boundary line and is not yet under the jurisdiction of either Mexico or of the United States.

COMMITTEE MEET

To Set Date for State Convention to Nominate Delegates to St. Louis Convention.

New York, Feb. 8.—The Republican state committee met at the Fifth Avenue hotel at 11 today to set a date for the state convention, to nominate delegates at large to the national Republican convention at St. Louis. The committee also heard a protest of the committee of 600, or anti-Platt element.

Ex-United States District Attorney Mitchell submitted the memorial of the protestors which asks that the primaries for the election of delegates to the state and congressional district conventions in New York county be not held until there has been a new enrollment as he claims that the last enrollment was fraudulent.

He was followed by John S. Wise, formerly of Virginia, who denounced the enrollment in a bitter speech. He said that if the enrollment had been honest they, meaning the anti-Platt faction, would have controlled the county convention. This remark was greeted with much laughter by the members of the committee. He was followed by Paul Cravath who spoke in a similar vein.

DEATH OF BRAKEMAN

From Injuries Received at Silver Hill on Fitchburg Railroad.

WALTHAM, Mass., Feb. 8. Another death from injuries received on the Fitchburg railroad occurred in this city this morning. John Mahoney, a brakeman, was struck by the bridge at Silver Hill and was brought to the Waltham hospital for treatment, having to suffer unattended over the long intervening distance. He died at about 4.45. He was fifty years of age and belonged in Framingham where both his parents live. During the last few months Mahoney's wife and two children have died.

NO SUCH PARTY.

Letter Thought to Have Been Written by Person of Unsound Mind.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 8. A person signing the name of Annie McCormick, Rochester, N. H., has written to Mayor Junkins stating that she has been informed that her mother, Mary McCormick, has died and left money for her. She asked him to look into the matter and let her know and she would pay him. The Mayor communicated with the priest of St. Anne's Church, who would be likely to know of the deceased, but he says no such person attended the church. It is thought the letter must have been written by some one of unsound mind.

DELEGATE AT LARGE.

Movement to Send Ex-Pres. Harrison to St. Louis Convention.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. An Indianapolis, Ind., special says there is a movement on foot among the leading Republican politicians of the State to send ex-President Harrison to the National Republican convention at St. Louis as one of the delegates at large, his friends declaring that he would exercise a commanding influence in that body, and, if he chose to do so, could secure the nomination of Allison, whom he prefers to all other candidates. In the quiet discussions that the leaders have indulged in there has been expressed the hope that the presence of Harrison in the convention would have the effect of stampeding that body to him and thus make him the party candidate despite his desire for a private life.

Latest Thing in Pedagogy Should Be Golden Rule.

Corporation Formed at New Sweden—Other Notes.

Androscoggin.

"I hope that the modern pedagogical societies teach that kindness will sometimes bend boys quite as much as stubbornness," said a Lewiston parent. "I used to think that if you could get along with a boy in the school it was better than driving him out of it upon the street. A system that announces that it can't get along with real boys (not sheep) inside the schoolhouse is possibly amenable to reform. The latest thing in pedagogy, it strikes me, should be the Golden Rule. I used to have a teacher who could talk me into shape in ten minutes, and I wasn't very soft-hearted, either. I heard of a teacher once who said that his iron will was the anvil and the pupils were the iron to be moulded to it. He forgot that the iron must be red hot in the process. When I taught school later in life my theory was that if the boys didn't pull just as you wanted 'em, the best thing was to keep 'em pulling and then wheedle them into the right road. It can be done by the teacher of genius."

Aroostook.

A corporation has been formed to carry on a general merchandise business at New Sweden, also to manufacture starch and long and short lumber. The officers elected are as follows: Susie A. Gardner, president; E. W. Ullrich, secretary; C. A. Ullrich, treasurer. The directors are Susie A. Gardner, Otis W. Gardner, Horace E. Jones, Carl A. Ullrich, A. F. Ullrich, E. W. Ullrich and Geo. I. Trickey.

Mr. H. B. Nash, of Presque Isle, seems to be rich in various chattels valuable on account of their age. He has in his possession, among other things, an ancient pamphlet printed exactly 100 years ago the 25th of May next, whose title page bears this inscription: "A sermon preached before his Excellency, Samuel Adams, Esq., Governor, his honor, Moses Hill, Esq., Lieut. Governor, the Honorable Council, Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, by Jonathan French, A. M., pastor of a church at Andover."

Kennebec.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Alden, of Waterville, gave a reception Friday night to several hundred guests in Soper's Hall, the occasion being the celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary. It was the largest and most brilliant social event in that city for years.

Knox.

An automatic pay station telephone has been placed in the writing room of the Thorndike House in Rockland for the convenience of the public. A person can call up the central office and get connected with any city in the circuit. Payment is made by dropping in the slots of the machine the price of the message as told by Central. The different coins make a different noise when dropped in and the operator at the central office can tell if the right change is deposited. It is impossible to beat the machine, which is the first of its kind ever used in that city.

Knox Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Rockland, are making arrangements to celebrate the 78th anniversary of Odd Fellowship. The anniversary comes on Sunday, April 26, and the exercises will be held the following day. Knox lodge has invited the other six lodges of the 7th district, Union lodge of Union, Star of Hope of Vinalhaven, Appleton lodge of Appleton, Mt. Battie lodge of Camden and St. George lodge of Tenant's Harbor. The grand master of Maine and the deputy grand master will be present. The special feature of the evening will be the conferring of all the degrees, and speeches by the grand and deputy grand masters. Invitations have been extended to Warren lodge to confer the first degree and to Star of Hope lodge to confer the second. The third will be worked by Knox lodge. It is expected that the work will be of a very high character. The ceremonies will be followed by a banquet.

It was a new bunco game attempted by a Belfast genius, who cut the names off a petition two or three years old and posted them on his latest scheme before the city government.

POPPIES.

All above the sunshine dazzled, all below the poppies blazed,
Pink and white and glowing crimson; crumbled, like the hands that raised,
The gray columns stood among them, each a record, stern and dumb,
Of the varied past behind them, waiting for the times to come.

All above the sunshine dazzled, all below the poppies gleamed,
And the soft south wind among them murmured like a soul that dreamed—
Dreamed of sweeter, rarer flowers, dreamed of sunshine fiercer far,
Dreamed of all that it had slept on, far beyond its own fair star.

All above the sunshine dazzled, all below the poppies shone,
And one stood mid blooms and breezes, dreaming of the days long gone,
Where the long, green English meadows, bathed in glory from the west,
Heard a whisper, saw a meeting, and tears blotted out the rest.

All above the sunshine dazzled, all below the poppies swayed,
As the light airs from the ocean with their fair, frail petals played.
She dashed aside the dew that dared to dim her proud eyes' steady light,
Choosing out the gayest poppies. "They shall catch his glance tonight."

A SET OF ROGUES.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Again must I draw upon matter of after knowledge to show you how all things came to pass on this fatal night.

When Mr. Godwin reached London, he went to Sir Peter Lely's house in Lincoln's Inn to know if he was still at Hatfield, and there learning he was gone hence to Hampton, and no one answering for certainty when he would return, Mr. Godwin, seeing that he might linger in London for days to no purpose, and bethinking him how pale and sorrowful his dear wife was when they parted, concludes to leave his picture at Sir Peter Lely's and post back to Chiselhurst, counting to give his wife a happy surprise.

About 8 o'clock he reaches the court, to find all shut and barred by the prudent housekeeper, who, on letting him in, with many exclamations of joy and wonder, falls presently to sighing and shaking her head, as she tells how her mistress has lain abed since dinner and is sick of her biliaries.

In great concern Mr. Godwin takes the candle from Mrs. Butterby's hand and hastes up to his wife's room. Opening the door softly, he enters, to find the bed tumbled indeed, but empty. He calls her in a soft voice, going into the next room, and getting no reply, nor finding her there, he calls again, more loudly, and there is no response. Then, as he stands irresolute and amazed, he hears a knock at the door below, and concluding that 'tis his wife, who has had occasion to go out seeking fresh air for her comfort maybe, he runs swiftly down and opens ere a servant can answer the call. And there he is faced, not by sweet Moll, but the jaundiced, wicked old Simon, gasping and panting for breath.

"Dost thee know," says he, fetching his breath at every other word, "dost thee know where the woman thy wife is?"

"Where is she?" cries Mr. Godwin in quick alarm, thinking by this fellow's sweating haste that some accident had befallen his dear wife.

"I will show thee where she is. Aye, and what she is," gasps the old man, and then, clasping his hands, he adds, "Verily, the Lord hath heard my prayers and delivered nine enemies into my hand."

Mr. Godwin, who had stepped aside to catch up his hat from the table, where he had flung it on entering, stopped short, hearing this fervent note of praise, and turning about, with misgivings of Simon's purpose, cries:

"What are your enemies to me?"

"Everything," cries Simon. "Mine enemies are thine, for as they have cheated me so have they cheated thee."

"Enough of this," cries Mr. Godwin. "Tell me where my wife is, and be done with it."

"I say I will show thee where she is and what she is."

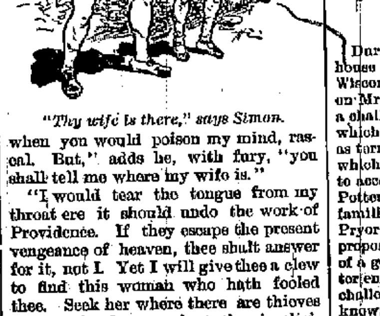

"Tell me where she is," cries Mr Godwin, with passion.

"That is my secret, and too precious to throw away."

"I comprehend you now," says Mr. Godwin, bethinking him of the fellow's greed. "You shall be paid. Tell me where she is and name your price."

"The price is this," returns the other, "thy promise to be secret, to catch them in this trap and give no opening for escape. Oh, I know them. They are as serpents that slip through your fingers and turn to bite. They shall not serve me so again. Promise!"—

"Nothing. Think you I'm of your own base kind, to deal with you in treachery? You had my answer before, when you would poison my mind, rascal. But," adds he, with fury, "you shall tell me where my wife is."

"Thy wife is there," says Simon.

"I would tear the tongue from my throat ere it should undo the work of Providence. If they escape the present vengeance of heaven, thee shalt answer for it, not I. Yet I will give thee a clew to find this woman who hath fooled thee. Seek her where there are thieves and drunkards to mock at thy simplicity, to jeer at thine easy gull, for I say again thy wife never was in Barbary, but playing the farded wanton"—

The patience with which Mr. Godwin had bestowed to this tirade, doubting by his passion that Simon was stark mad, gave way before this vile aspersion on his wife, and clutching the old man by the throat he flung him across the threshold and shut the door upon him.

But where was his wife? That question was still uppermost in his thoughts. His sole misgiving was that accident had befallen her, and that somewhere in the house he should find her lying cold and insensible.

With this terror in his mind he ran again up stairs. On the landing he was met by Mrs. Batterby, who, prudent soul, at the first hint of misconduct on her mistress' part, had bundled the gaping servants up to their rooms.

"Mercy on us, dear master!" says she. "Where can our dear lady be? For a surety she hath not left the house, for I looked all up, as she bade me when we carried up her supper, and had the key in my pocket when you knocked. 'See the house safe,' says she, poor soul, with a voice could scarce be heard, 'and let no one disturb me, for I do feel most heavy with sleep.'"

Mr. Godwin passed into his wife's room, and then into the next, looking about him in distraction.

"Lord, here's the sweet thing's nightgown!" exclaims Mrs. Butterby from the next room, whither she had followed Mr. Godwin. "But, dear heart o' me, where's the ham gone?"

Mr. Godwin, entering from the next room, looked at her as doubting whether he or all the world had taken leave of their wits.

"And the pigeon pasty!" added Mrs. Butterby, regarding the table laid out beside her mistress' bed.

"And the cold partridge?" adds she in redoubled astonishment. "Why, here's naught left but my pudding and that as cold as a stone."

Mr. Godwin, with the candle flaring in his hand, passed hastily by her, too wrought by fear to regard either the ludicrous or incomprehensible side of Mrs. Butterby's consternation, and so, going down the corridor away from the stairs, he comes to the door of the little back stairs; standing wide open and seeming to bid him descend. He goes quickly down, yet trembling with fear that he may find her at the bottom, broken by a fall, but all he discovers is the bolt drawn and the door ajar. As he pushes it open a gust of wind blows out the light, and here he stood in the darkness, eager to be doing, yet knowing not which way to turn or how to act.

Clearly, his wife had gone out by this door, and so far this gave support to Simon's statement that he knew where she was, and with this a flame was kindled within him that seemed to sear his very soul. If Simon spoke truth in one particular, why should he lie in others? Why had his wife refused to go with him to Hatfield? Why had she bid no one come near her room? Why had she gone forth by this secret stair alone? Then, cursing himself for the unnamed suspicion that could thus, though but for a moment, disfigure the fair image that he worshiped, he asked himself why his wife should not be free to follow a caprice. But where was she? Even that question surged upward in the tumult of his thoughts. Where should he seek her? Suddenly it struck him that I might help him to find her, and acting instantly upon his hope he made his way in breathless haste to the road, and so toward my lodge.

Ere he has gone a hundred yards Simon steps out of the shadow and stands before him like a shade in the dimness.

"I crave thy pardon, master," says he humbly. "I spoke like a fool in my passion."

"If you will crave my pardon, tell me where to find my wife; if not, stand aside," answers Mr. Godwin.

"Wilt thee hear me speak for two minutes if I promise to tell thee where she is and suffer thee to find her how thee willst? 'Twill save thee time."

"Speak," says Mr. Godwin.

"Thy wife is there," says Simon under his breath, pointing toward my house. "She is reveling with Hopkins and Captain Evans, men that she did tramp the country with as vagabond players ere the Spaniard taught them more profitable wickedness. Knock at the door, which thee mayst be sure is fast, and while one holds thee in parley the rest will set the room in order and find a plausible tale to hoodwink thee afresh. Be guided by me, and thee shalt enter the house unknown to them, as I did an hour since, and there thee shalt know, of thine own senses, how thy wife doth profit by thy blindness. If this truth be not proved, if thee canst then say that I have lied from malice, envy and evil purpose, this knife," says he, showing a blade in his hand, "this knife will I thrust into my own heart, though I stand the next instant before the Eternal Judge, my hands wet with my own blood, to answer for my crime."

"Have you finished?" asks Mr. Godwin.

"No, not yet. I hold thee to thy promise," returns Simon, with eager haste. "Why do men lie? For their own profit? What profit have I in lying, when I pray you to put my word to the proof, and not take it on trust, with the certainty of punishment even if the proof be doubtful? You believe this woman what she pretends to be. What does that show? Your simplicity—not hers. How would women trick their husbands without such skill to blind them by a pretense of love and virtue?"

"Say no more," cries Mr. Godwin hoarsely, "or I may strangle you before you pass trial. Go your devilish way I'll follow."

"Now God be praised for this! Softly, softly!" adds he, creeping in the shade of the back toward the house.

But ere he has gone a dozen paces Mr. Godwin repents him again, with shame in his heart, and stopping says:

"I'll go no farther."

"Then thee doubtest my word no longer," whispers Simon quickly. "'Tis fear that makest thee halt, the fear of finding thy wife a wanton and a trickster."

"No, no, by God!"

"If that be so, then art thee bound to prove her innocent, that I may not say to all the world thee mightiest have put her honor to the test and dared not, choosing rather to cheat thyself and be cheated by her than know thyself dishonored. If thee dost truly love this woman and believe her guiltless, then for her honor must thee put me—not her—to this trial."

"No madman could reason like this," says Mr. Godwin. "I accept this trial, and heaven forgive me if I do wrong."

INDICTMENT RETURNED

By Grand Jury but Has Not Been Made Public.

Salem, Mass., Feb. 8. The Grand Jury this forenoon considered the case of Clarence Murphy, now under arrest at San Francisco, also the case of Captain John Allen, of Manchester. At noon an indictment was returned to the court, but it was not made public. Considerable speculation exists as to which case it was in.

SUICIDES BY HANGING

At Home Near Boston—Despondency the Cause.

NASHUA, N. H., Feb. 8. Fred Wheeler, a former resident of this city, committed suicide at his home in or near Boston, yesterday, by hanging. Cause despondency.

Their Absence Explained.

During an acrimonious debate in the house shortly before the war Mr. Potter of Wisconsin made some very sharp strictures on Mr. Pryor of Virginia. The result was a challenge from Pryor to fight a duel, which Potter promptly accepted, naming as terms bowie knifes at five paces, terms which he well knew Pryor would not dare to accept, as he was a small man, while Potter was a large, powerful man and familiar with the use of the bowie knife. Pryor declined on the ground that the proposed terms were beneath the dignity of a gentleman to accept, and so the matter ended. But on the day following the challenge, while the result was still unknown, both Potter and Pryor were absent during roll call, and when Potter's name was called, a Quaker member rose, and in a mild voice said, "Mr. Speaker, I am informed that the gentleman from Wisconsin had a Prior engagement." And when Pryor's name was called a moment later he rose again, saying, "Mr. Speaker, I hear that the gentleman from Virginia has gone to be as clay in the hands of the Potter."—San Francisco Argonaut.

G. A. R.

Mr. Editor:—

The following letter explains itself. Kimball Post when in Bangor will have headquarters at the Windsor House.

Headquarters Kimball Post, No. 38, Department of Maine, G. A. R. Livermore Falls, Me., Dec. 12, 1895.

To the Comrades of the Department of Maine, G. A. R.:

Kimball Post, No. 38, Department of Maine, G. A. R., will, at the next annual encampment of this Department present the name of Comrade, Past Department Chaplain, Charles A. Southard, as a candidate for Department Commander.

Comrade Southard is too well known to this Department to need an introduction. He enlisted July 29th, 1862, in the 20th Maine Regiment. He was wounded while following Jackson's retreat across the Potomac River after the battle of Antietam, which disabled him for further service in the army, and after nearly four months of hospital life he was discharged. He was the first man wounded in the regiment, and from the effects of that wound has never seen a well day since.

His Grand Army life has been one of devotion to the Order. For six years as Chaplain he served this Department faithfully as every comrade can testify. His work ranks among the first and foremost in the Order.

No comrade can question his ability for office of Department Commander. He is a comrade with a character unstained, and a reputation unsullied. If elected to the office of Department Commander, he will carry to it the dignity of his profession and the power and influence of true comradeship.

We feel in presenting the name of Comrade Southard as a candidate for Department Commander, that we shall have the approval of this Department and we bespeak for him your hearty support by word and deed.

Per Order Kimball Post, No. 38, G. A. R.

Commander, GEORGE TARR.

Adjutant, S. S. NELKE.

We sincerely endorse the foregoing.

Sewell Oakes, the Holden boy who fired a charge of shot through his head last Tuesday, was still alive at last accounts and as comfortable as can be expected. Friday his physician removed more of the charge from his forehead and the gunwad from the nasal cavity. While he is to all appearances doing well the doctor has but very faint hope for the boy's recovery, blood poisoning being feared.

The new desks for the aldermen's room at City Hall, Oldtown, have arrived and are in place. They were made at Morse & Company's, Bangor, and are fine pieces of work. They are made of quartered oak, trimmed with handsome moulding and highly polished. There are four double and two single desks for the aldermen, one large desk for the mayor with a desk on either side of his for the city clerk and city attorney.

The Philadelphia [illegible] says: "A prepossessing young woman, who says she is Miss Gamage, was searching in Camden yesterday for a Miss Laura Willitts, who she says, is heiress to a fortune by the death of an uncle near Bangor, Me. Miss Gamage says the last clew to Miss Willitts' whereabouts came from Camden and the search would be prosecuted there. She did not know the exact amount of the legacy, but it is large."

Our business and professional men are all invited to attend the reception at the Young Men's Christian Association building Tuesday evening as are also the gentlemen friends of the Ladies' Auxiliary under whose auspices the reception is given. The ladies are planning for a grand time and with the orchestra, choice refreshments and the pleasant company always present on these occasions, those who attend will not be disappointed.

The lever of the whistle at Peavey's cant dog manufactory on Exchange street was tied down last night and when the steam was turned on the whistle began to blow and kept it up quite a long time. The bells were rung and the fire company came out but not long afterwards the cause was discovered and they returned.

At the meeting held last week at the Hotel Brunswick, New York city, by the general passenger agents of the lines east of Chicago interested in Niagara Falls business, rates and train service were fixed for the summer business, and as an evidence of the importance in which travel from and to our section via Niagara Falls is held, and also their high appreciation of Col. F. E. Boothby, the popular general passenger agent of the Maine Central, they chose him chairman of this committee, virtually giving him authority for the direction and decision of all matters other than those necessary to be decided at a joint meeting, and giving him power to call such meeting whenever he thinks advisable. It was the proper thing to do.

NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE ATHLETES.

Their Association Holds Its Annual Meeting—An Important New Rule

The annual convention of the New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association was held at the Brunswick in Boston Saturday afternoon. Mr. Ben Hurd, of M. I. T., presided, and Mr. Leonard, of Trinity, acted as secretary.

A proposed amendment to the constitution, which was finally adopted, caused considerable discussion. The new rule is somewhat similar to that in vogue at Harvard, and is, in effect, that a student coming from another college shall not compete in track athletics until he has been a full year in the college for which he wishes to compete.

There was quite a lively tilt over selecting a place for the next athletic meeting of the association. Representatives of the Providence Athletic Club, Springfield Bicycle Club and Worcester Athletic Club were present, and made bids for the meeting, and, after a three hours' discussion, it was voted to hold the meeting in Worcester, as heretofore. The date is the last Saturday in May. It was voted to admit Tufts College. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Stephen Clarke, of Dartmouth; first vice president, A. D. Call of Brown; second vice-president, A. L. Smith of Wesleyan; secretary, H. W. Allen, M. I. T.; treasurer, A. D. Plumpton of Trinity; executive committee, L. L. Foster, of Amherst, J. H. Morse, of Bowdoin, C. H. Ingham, of Brown, J. N. Pringle, of Dartmouth, H. P. Beers, of Technology, H. D. Plumpton, of Trinity, A. L. Smith, of Wesleyan, ——, of Williams, H. H. Morse, of Worcester, N. S. Parks, of Tufts.

An Epoch in Its History

Last week marked an epoch in the history of the religious life of the world for just fifteen years ago Rev. Francis L. Clark, D. D., then pastor of the Williston church at Portland, gathered together the young people of his church, and, with them, formed the first society of Christian Endeavor.

The little society thus modestly started has grown into nearly 43,000 societies, with over 2,570,000 members. Each year it has been said that now, at last, the high water mark has been reached, and yet every annual report has shown a more marvellous extension still.

From Maine the society first extended to Massachusetts and thence to other States. From State to State, from country to country, the idea has spread all around the world until now "World wide Endeavor" is the appropriate title to apply to a society that has branches in every country, and has been firmly established wherever Protestant Christianity is known. The church has felt the influence of such a mighty force and is reaching out into the world as never before. Through the young people and largely through the influence of the Christian Endeavor Society, Christian citizenship has come to mean more than a name. In the field of temperance, municipal reform and other aggressive movements of the day it is acknowledged that a new and a mighty force must be reckoned with.

Though temperance work, missions and good citizenship movements have been entered into heartily by the young people of the Christian Endeavor societies, at the same time they have not lost sight of the fundamental principles of the society, which through all the changes and developments of fifteen years are still firmly held. Dr. Clark defines these as the pledge, the prayer meeting and the committee work.

The organization of the society is peculiar, and, from one point of view, weak, but this apparent weakness is, in fact, a source of strength. Each society is independent of every other society, and owes no allegiance except to its own church. For convenience, the united society has been formed, which is in reality a bureau of information. It exacts no tribute and claims no authority, yet has a wide and beneficent influence. State, provincial, county and local unions have also been formed for conference and mutual help, yet having no power to control the action of any individual society. Australia has its own united society, and a union has been formed in the land of the Southern Cross, to include New Zealand and Tasmania, as well as the Australian colonies. England, also, has its united society, and Canada is moving for closer union between the provinces in Christian Endeavor matters.

Teachers' Reading Circle

Mr. C. M. Sargent, of Boston, is engaged at present in making a tour of the State in the interests of the Maine Branch of the Teachers' Reading Circle, and reports that in all places he has thus far visited he has found uniformly warm commendation of the organization. In conversation with a reporter recently, Mr. Sargent said: "The way the branch has grown is positively something wonderful. Principals and teachers alike, in city as well as rural sections fall into line with an enthusiasm which promises a brilliant future for the education throughout the State. Men who have given their lives to education have pronounced it the greatest movement in the direction of bettering the work of teachers which has ever been made.

"It brings the teachers into personal contact with one another, and gives them a uniformity of effort that will in a very short time mean much. In Auburn up to last week 35 of the teachers had enrolled, taking every one that is in the city proper. In Rockland, 25 out of the 26 engaged in the schools have taken up the work, and in the village sections there is the same unanimity regarding it. In many sections the teachers have arranged to do much of the prescribed course at their homes, and, at the regular monthly teachers' meetings devote a certain time to the discussion of the subjects."

MURDERER ARRAIGNED.

Charles H. Dolloff Pleades Not Guilty to the Charge.

Brought to Bangor Jail to Await Hearing at Oldtown Wednesday.

Coroner's Inquest Over the Remains of Joseph Albert Saturday.

Several Witnesses Relate Their Story of the Fatal Shooting.

The coroner's inquest over the remains of Joseph Albert, who was shot and killed by Charles H. Dolloff at Treat and Webster's Island, Oldtown, Friday evening, was held Saturday. In the forenoon Coroner Hartwell Lancaster, who arrested Dolloff after the deed, summoned a jury made up of Judge F. J. Whiting, foreman, J. H. Morrison, H. I. Gibbons, Joseph H. Beauleau, Fred A. Dubay, and Frank Taylor. At 1.30 o clock in the afternoon the inquest was begun in the court room with a room packed full of humanity and a big crowd outside.

J. F. Gould, Esq., appeared for the State, County Attorney C. A. Bailey being unable to be present.

The witnesses were Valley Michaud and his wife Mary, who conduct the place where the tragedy occurred, Bert Albert, Vetal Michaud and Charles Plude.

The testimony of these witnesses was substantially alike, each corroborating the other. It was to the effect that the Michauds and Joseph Albert met Dolloff at the Oldtown depot late Friday afternoon and asked him to go to Michaud's on the island. They all went over just before supper time and previous to eating had a slight drink of whiskey from a bottle containing a small quantity which Dolloff had.

After supper they went into the next room and it was suggested that they chip in and get a pint of whiskey, which was done. Dolloff paid more than his share and exhibited a large roll of bills making a remark that he was prepared to take care of it. They drank twice apiece and sat around the room and chatted.

Dolloff proposed to Albert that they go to the show in Oldtown but Albert said there was time enough and he was in no hurry. Dolloff kept urging him to go and finally Albert lost his temper and said he would not go at all. Dolloff playfully took hold of Albert's coat collar and Albert told him if he did not let up he would strike him.

Dolloff said, "O, you wouldn't do that," but Albert followed up his threat by striking Dolloff and one witness testified that he struck him a number of times knocking him into a corner against the door. Dolloff pulled his revolver and fired. The revolver was knocked upward and the bullet went into the ceiling. He fired again and the bullet entered Albert's abdomen. The third bullet struck an artery above the heart and killed him.

Albert fell down upon his face and Dolloff walked out of the house without his hat, apparently dazed. The witnesses testified that Dolloff did not raise a hand to strike Albert and did not threaten to strike him. After the tragedy an officer was sent for and Deputy Sheriff Lancaster found Dolloff standing near Hayes' store where he had bought a hat, and arrested him. City Marshal Gould afterwards took Dolloff and locked him up in the station. At the time he had $160 of the $170 which he drew from the bank Thursday and said he ought to have more than that.

After the testimony of the above named witnesses the inquest was adjourned to next Saturday. Dolloff was then taken before Judge Whiting and arraigned on the charge of murder. He pleaded "not guilty" and was then brought to Bangor by Deputy Sheriff Lancaster and locked up in jail for safe keeping. The hearing will be held at Oldtown next Wednesday at 10 A. M.

Albert's relations live in Caribou and they were notified of his death. His father was unable to come on but will come later. The body was interred at Oldtown yesterday.

Col. Jasper Hutchings of this city, has been retained as counsel for Dolloff at the hearing Wednesday.

Interview With the Prisoner

A WHIG representative called at the jail and had an interview with the prisoner, who is a youth in his nineteenth year. He is nearly six feet tall, has a smooth, boyish face and light hair, is good looking and does not appear like one who would willingly shoot a man. He said at first that he had nothing to say about his case but finally spoke briefly about it.

He said that the three men met him at the depot and that Albert, whom he had not known before that afternoon, proposed to give him some fun at Michaud's. They went there and had something to drink, but not much. He asked Albert to go to the show with him, but Albert refused and finally got mad and struck him several times. He thought of robbery and pulling his revolver fired.

He then left the house, not knowing that he had killed Albert but thinking that he had only wounded him. He went to Hayes' store and purchased a hat. Dolloff said that he remembered what occurred at the Michaud house and was prepared to testify when the time came. He said that he has been at work during the winter at a lumber camp above Guilford.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT

At the Y. M. C. A. Hall Thursday Evening

One of the enjoyable concerts of the winter will be that of next Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Hall by the Bowdoin College Glee, Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club, which is composed of 22 members, pleasing singers and skillful players on the different instruments. Last year's concert by the club in this city was a great success and this year's club is said to be even better than that of '95.

One of the members is Mr. William T. Veazie, of this city. The club has received considerable instruction from Mr. Kotzschmar, of Portland, the well known composer and musician, and especial attention has been given to expression. Both the lively and catchy college songs and those of greater aspirations will be sung and the playing by the Banjo, Mandolin & Guitar Club will also be sure to please.

Mr. M. Sumner Coggan is the reader and he has much ability in that direction as well as experience.

The sale of tickets opens this morning at Warren's drug store and there will without doubt be an extensive demand for them.

At the close of the concert a reception will be held and all are invited to attend. There are many Bowdoin alumni in Bangor who will doubtless be present.

The Bowling Tournament—Jacques Wins the Silver Medal

The last game of the Y. M. C. A. bowling contest was bowled Saturday between the B. B. C. and the Y. M. C. A. 2nd teams. The Y. M. C. A. 2nd team won by 7 pins. The High School team came off victorious in the tournament, beating her nearest rival, the Y. M. C. A. team, seventy five pins.

Jacques came in first in the individual contest, winning the silver medal that was offered. He had an average of 165 2-5 in nine games, which is considered very good for the Y. M. C. A. alleys. Snow and Wheelden were tied for second place and Sprague came in a good fourth.

The following is a record of the team standing and the individual record of each man:

AMUSEMENTS

'The Two Johns'

The "Two Johns" will be seen at the Opera House on Thursday evening next. The Inquirer of Buffalo, N. Y., had the following criticism:

"The Two Johns, Stewart and Dresser, made fun for everybody at the Lyceum last night, and their mishaps through their resemblance to each other were enough to make anybody laugh. They look so much alike that it would be difficult for the uninitiated to tell them apart.

As Phillip Johns and Peter Johns the two men make a great hit and introduced a good many new jokes and situations which are striking. The support by the remainder of the company is good and some musical numbers are introduced which give variety to the programme. The instrumental music is particularly good.

There was a large and well pleased audience out last evening as there always is when these two favorite "Johns" come to Buffalo.

Notes

A broadsword combat on horseback is one of the many sensational incidents of Sutton Vane's great melodrama, "Humanity," which will be seen at the Elks' benefit, Opera House, on February 17th and 18th.

The L. A. W.

The national assembly of the League of American Wheelmen will convene at Baltimore, Md. to day.

The assembly has many important measures to consider and actions to determine, but all these have this year been thrown aside by the excitement and interest of a presidential campaign, which has been so warmly waged at both the cycling shows and elsewhere that even the amateur question has been forced somewhat to the wall and even class B and that likewise important question, Where shall the league meet be held in '96? have taken a back seat.

All the members of the executive committee now in power are candidates for re-election while as yet the opposition ticket has no candidate for the office of first vice president. Massachusetts wants Elliott at the head and a candidate must sooner or later be found to place in nomination against George A. Perkins, the present vice president.

Mr. Elliott will have the support of his own division, the vote of all New England, with the possible exception of Connecticut, the support of New Jersey and New York and a strong western vote brought by the candidacy of Connolly, of Illinois, and Hartwell, of Denver, on his ticket. This is considered to give him a majority, and his friends claim that he is a reasonably sure winner.

Next in importance to the presidential question comes the matter of the national meet. The candidates for the plum this year are Louisville and Toledo.

There are no less than seventy-five amendments to the constitution to be offered at this meeting. The general impression is that class B will remain a fixture another year, at least, but will be known under another name. It is intended that the riders in this class shall enjoy the privilege of disposing of medals won, to the racing board, at 90 cents on the dollar.

Central Club Lecture this Evening

The Central Club lecture to-night by Mr. W. A. Cole, formerly an instructor at Harvard, will be an interesting one, it is expected. Mr. Cole is an author of much ability as well as a good speaker. His subject will be "Some Modern Economic Tendencies." Ticket holders to the Central Club course are requested to present for admission to the lecture that part of the ticket upon which are printed the words Central Club Lectures. The ticket numbered 6 and dated February 10th will be used later in the course.

The Beecher-Fuller Wedding

Miss Fannie Fuller, youngest daughter of Chief Justice Fuller, of the United States Supreme Court, who has many friends in Bangor, she having visited here a number of times, will be one of the attendants of the bride at the marriage of her sister, Miss Katherine Fuller, to Mr. Theodore Beecher, of Buffalo, on the evening of the 17th instant. There will be somewhat of a departure from the usual order of fashionable weddings. This will be in the attendance of a married sister of the bride, Mrs. Aubrey, as one of the wedding party. Only once before has this been done in Washington, and then, singularly enough, it was at a fashionable wedding at St. John's church, where this coming marriage of the chief justice's daughter is to take place.

Miss Fannie Fuller, the youngest daughter of the chief justice, who has not yet made her debut, is to be the maid of honor. The two other sisters now living at home, Mrs. Aubrey and Miss Jane Fuller, the latter one of the present season's debutantes, will be the attendants of the bride. The ushers will be Mr. G. P. Keating, of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. S. Wells, Jr., of Detroit; Mr. Nathan Clifford, of Portland, Me.; Dr. H. H. Haskell, of Massachusetts, and Mr. Richard D. Ware, of Boston.

The marriage will be followed by a reception at the house at 8.30 o'clock.

"THE FROG FAIRY."

Pleasant Entertainment and Fair at St. John's Episcopal Vestry

At the vestry of St. John's Episcopal church Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 an enjoyable entertainment and fair occurred and there was a good attendance. The entertainment consisted of the successful presentation of "The Frog Fairy" by the following well known cast of characters:

Frog Fairy	Blanche Gardiner
Princess	Margaret Brown
Princess	Helen Moody
Princess	Marion Stewart
Soldier	Philip Wiggin
Jailer	Ralph Gardiner
King	Ralph Waters
Gentlemen in Waiting	Seldon Waters, Howard Taylor

The entertainment was fully enjoyed by all present. It occupied about an hour and the remainder of the time was devoted to a sale. The candy, lemonade and ice cream and cake tables, together with the goose that laid the golden egg, were largely patronized. Over $50 was cleared from the affair.

Enjoyable Dancing Party

It was a very happy idea which originated in the Penobscot Club and was carried out in a most successful manner by members of that club and others, that of giving an old time dancing party at Pullen's hall to which the "old folks" and the younger dancing people should be invited. The result was a large and delighted gathering last Saturday evening and it was really the event of the season. There were no "old folks" there, though—they were all young in spirit, at least, and the younger dancers did not have all the fun by any means.

Many of the ladies and men who have not danced for some years participated in the delightful exercise and those who couldn't or didn't care to dance sat in the gallery, which was filled, and watched the movements of others with interest.

Pullen's orchestra of nine pieces never played better and the opinion of all was that no orchestra of its size in the country could have played better. The music was exhilarating, inspiring and aroused much enthusiasm. Mr. F. H. Small ably acted as floor director.

The dance was so successful that everybody expressed a desire for a number of others and they will probably be arranged in response to the clamor.
